Get To Know... Therese Neaimie

City and state you grew up in: Stockholm, Sweden

City and state you live in now: Stockholm, Sweden/Hollywood, California

First instrument: Guitar

Instruments you currently play: Keyboard

First performance: My first performance was at a dance theatre where I also won my first dance contest. I was only six but I already loved it!

Last book you read: The Alchemist by Paolo Coelho

Favourite movie: Scent Of A Woman with Al Pacino

Song you wish you had written: "Fields Of Gold" by Sting

Favorite song: It's so hard to name just one song your favorite... There are so many songs that inspire and influence you on your journey as a singer and songwriter. But two songs that really made a difference amongst these would be, "Hands" by Jewel and "No Ordinary Love" by Sade

Three people (alive or dead) you would want to have dinner with: My mother, and gone relatives that I miss tremendously. I would ask them why they had to leave so soon. Too many things unsaid!

Favorite holiday: I love any Holiday as long as it means that I can gather my friends and family around me to celebrate. Where would I be without them!?

Three CD's you can't live without: SADE (The Best Of), Marc Anthony (Marc Anthony), Eric Gadd (The Right Way)

Favorite American City: Los Angeles

Your most recent project: My debut album LIVIN, released In the Middle East and Sweden in April 2006. I'm so proud of this album, including songs born over a long period of time, each song with its own heart, soul and unique story. The U.S. release for my latest single "The Future" from the same album and a Promotion Tour to Dubai

Message to the world: "Don't put any limits to what you can achieve and you will be as successful as you want! Life is too short and valuable to waste!"

Clear Channel To Offer Programming To Rival Broadcasters

Clear Channel Radio has revealed it will offer 75 new radio channels as programming for its rival broadcasters. The channels will not just be available as HD2 stations though, they are part of a total audio, video and text package that will serve Internet channels, Web sites, iPods, satellite broadcasting and in-vehicle navigation systems as well. The new programming was created by CC's Content Research & Development Group, and is the result of "a previously secret initiative" known as "the Format Lab." The Format Lab is made up of veteran programmers and is headed up by content EVP Tom Owens and Online Music & Radio head Evan Harrison. The organization is described as a "virtual community" made up of over 200 programmers and production vets. "We have become agnostic about delivery and are completely passionate about content," said Clear Channel Radio President/CEO John Hogan. "And we'll continue to lead the radio industry on to new platforms. Radio programming is the most engaging and compelling media today. Our power to connect with, and hold, consumers will continue to reveal itself as we supplement our outstanding AM/FM properties with programming for new devices." Clear Channel promises that a number of non-professional radio programmers will also be involved in many of the new stations, such as a personal trainer as part of the workout channels or a Broadway vet programming a channel of show tunes. Broadcasters will be able to use the CC content however they see fit, from just running it as-is to adding in their own customized, local content. "We've created this programming to give broadcasters the most flexibility and the best return on investment," said Hogan. "The massive amounts of programming needed to feed rapidly growing numbers of HD2 multicast channels, Internet streams and other near-term opportunities dwarfs the real estate that our industry had to fill with the advent of FM. By making extraordinary programming available even more broadly, the radio industry will be able to fully

HD Radio Offerings Expand

The HD Radio Alliance has revealed it is planning to almost double its HD offerings nationally, with 22 additional markets added, including 42 of the top 50. This second wave of markets brings to total number of HD channels up to 450. Clear Channel specifically hopes to have 100 HD channels up and running by September. "One of the most exciting things about HD Radio is the ability to offer innovative new content customized for each individual local market," said HD Digital Radio Alliance President/CEO Peter Ferrara.

"Unlike any other audio entertainment source, radio is all about serving the local community and these new HD2 channels will do just that." The 22 new HD Radio markets are:

Just last week, Neil Young revealed he had recorded a new album titled Living With War, and hoped the politically-charged record would be released as soon as possible. Now Reprise Records says that fans will be able to buy the album as soon as next week. Living With War will go on sale as a digital download starting Tuesday, May 2. The record will also be heard streaming on Young's official Web site beginning this Friday, April 28. Reprise spokesperson Bill Bentley told Reuters the label plans "to get it into retail stores as soon after that as we can get them manufactured." Bentley added that, "Neil wants this album out there as soon as possible" and that it should arrive in stores between May 5 and 15. Much has already been made about the track "Let's Impeach The President," while other new songs on
